Accountability Process

Purpose:

The Institute of Food Technologists Student Association is committed to creating a volunteer community where everyone feels safe and welcomed. We do this by ensuring every volunteer leader of IFTSA has accepted the responsibilities of their position with this organization, including, but not limited to, those found in the Bylaws, Operations Manual, and in the mission and vision statements. The accountability procedures outlined here ensure that each leader will uphold their fiduciary responsibilities including conducting themselves in a manner becoming of an IFT member. The accountability process is divided into a general procedure and a protocol for harassment or discrimination infractions. We follow all guidelines and applicable law related to harassment and discrimination. We believe that harassment doesn't just hurt the person being harassed, it also has a negative impact on our working environment, impairs open communication and degrades trust. In short, we won't tolerate it. We expect that all members of the IFTSA team are eager to avoid conduct that could be construed or considered as harassing.

A) Overall Accountability Process:

When information of a potential infraction is received it should be reported to the IFTSA OOP. The members of the OOP will decide if an infraction occurred and if so whether the violation was major or minor. To the extent possible, the confidentiality of the party reporting an infraction will be protected. If the information is brought against a member of the OOP, that member will be disqualified from participating in this accountability process. If the potential infraction is minor, a three-step system will be implemented. Prior to this three-step system, a pre-warning from the OOP will give notice of violation and the proceeding process if an infraction occurs again. If the infraction is major, the information will be brought to the IFTSA Board of Directors (BoD) for a vote of removal.

Three-Step System:

- Step one: A verbal warning will be sent from the OOP to the individual responsible. In this warning, the violation will be presented to the individual responsible. It should contain a summary of events leading to the violation and the disciplinary actions that will occur if violations continue.
- Step two: A developmental conversation shall occur between the IFTSA OOP and the individual. In this meeting, the individual and the OOP will create an action plan. All members present will sign this plan.
- Step three: The information shall be brought to the IFTSA BoD. The BoD will hear from both the individual involved and the OOP. After deliberating, the BoD will vote on removing the individual from their volunteer position. Two-thirds (or a similar fraction based on numbers present) of the BoD must vote in favor of removal for the vote to pass. If the individual is a member of the BoD they must abstain from voting and will not count towards the two-thirds fraction of present voting members. If the vote to remove does not pass, the individual will remain in their volunteer position. Every violation following the third step shall be brought straight to the BoD for these proceedings.

Major Violations:

- Major violations, including, but not limited to, matters relating to ethics, harassment, and discrimination will be brought straight to the BoD.
- The BoD will hear from both the individual involved and the OOP. After deliberating, the BoD will vote on removing the individual from their volunteer position. Two-thirds (or a similar fraction based on numbers present) of the BoD must vote in favor of removal for the vote to pass. If the individual is a member of the BoD they must abstain from voting and will not count towards the two-thirds fraction of present voting members. If the vote to remove does not pass, the individual will remain in their volunteer position. Every violation following the third step shall be brought straight to the BoD for step-three proceedings.

B) Harassment & Discrimination Related Accountability Process:

Zero Tolerance

If we learn of alleged harassment—by any source—we’ll put a stop to it quickly. Offending volunteers will face corrective action, up to and including, immediate termination. This policy also applies to off-site conduct, including during IFTSA sponsored meetings or events, and while traveling on business. Non-employees or volunteers (such as partners or vendors) allegedly harassing our volunteers will be handled with equal promptness.

What is Discrimination?

Volunteer discrimination generally exists where a volunteer treats an applicant, employee, or volunteer less favorably merely because of a person's race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, political affiliation, disability or status as a protected veteran.

What Is Harassment?

Harassment can take many different forms: an unwanted touch, a racial joke, or a misuse of power in order to retaliate. At times, some might dismiss this conduct as everyday behavior. Fundamentally, it is a lack of respect for other people’s feelings and values. Harassment may include but is not limited to:

- Conduct that is disparaging or hostile toward an individual based on sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, color, race, creed, ancestry, religion, national origin, age, disability, genetic information, medical condition, pregnancy, childbirth or related medical conditions, marital status, parental status, veteran status, citizenship status, or another protect group status; or
- Unwelcome sexual advances, requests for sexual favors, and other physical, verbal or visual conduct based on sex.
- Conduct constitutes sexual harassment when:
 - Submission to the conduct is an explicit or implicit term or condition of volunteerism
 - Submission to or rejection of the conduct is used as the basis for a volunteer decision
 - It interferes with volunteer performance or creates an intimidating or offensive working environment or it offends a third party

Harassment is a serious issue and one that we don’t take lightly. Here are some examples of behaviors that we do not condone or permit in our association under this policy. Note this is not an exhaustive list:

- Offensive physical actions, written or spoken, and graphic communication, including obscene hand or finger gestures or sexually explicit drawings
- Any type of physical contact that is unwelcomed by the recipient
- Jokes or comments that are racial in nature
- Written or verbal comments or abuse of a sexual nature—such as vulgar or degrading descriptions of an individual
- Displaying sexually suggestive objects or images
- Jokes that are belittling or offensive towards one's religious beliefs
- Slurs, posters, or cartoons (such as emojis, memes or gifs) that are offensive or disrespectful
- Comments about an individual's body, sexual prowess or sexual deficiencies
- Questions regarding sexual conduct
- Degrading comments or criticisms related to one's age
- Provocative or harassing communications (phone calls, voicemail messages, email messages or texts)
- Touching, leering, whistling, suggested contact, comments or gestures
- Demanding sexual favors in exchange for sexual treatment or coerced sexual acts

Complaint Process

- If you've experienced or witnessed anything that offends you or you believe is a violation of this policy, you should advise the offender that his or her conduct is unwelcome or offensive and that he or she should stop it. Whether you are comfortable discussing the situation with the offender or not, you should notify any leader, IFT Human Resources Department or IFT's 3rd party legal counsel immediately.
- Reporting alleged harassment in good faith and participating in an investigation in good faith will not reflect adversely upon your volunteer status or affect future employment.
- We will take an active role in assessing and responding to charges of alleged harassment:
- We will investigate each complaint promptly and do everything we can to ensure there will be no retaliation against anyone who reports alleged harassment or cooperates in an investigation.
- Anyone who engages in retaliatory behavior, makes a false claim of harassment, or intentionally gives false information in connection with a complaint investigation will be disciplined up to and including termination from IFTSA.
